BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITIES

IN WESTERN CANADA

THE CANADIAN WEST

THE Western Lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway extend from Port Arthur and Fort William, in the east, to Port Alberni and Courtenay, on Vancouver Island, in the west, covering part of Western Ontario and the whole of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. In its journey across the continent, the railway traverses and opens up a vast territory bountifully gifted in every natural resource, destined for the development of every kind of commercial enterprise. It is rich in timber, minerals, fisheries and fertile agricultural land, possessing within its confines those properties which go to make for successful industrial development. The increase year by year in land settlement demands a contributory increase in industrial growth. The market for the manufactured article is within the territory of its manufacture, and it now awaits the further investigation on the part of the capitalist.

The cities, towns and villages which are tributary to the Company's lines of railway in the West, and now number well over two thousand, contain numerous openings for the retail merchant, whilst the manufacturer and wholesaler find a ready market for the sale and distribution of their merchandise. For the manufacturer, the water-powers of the Western rivers, the coal deposits of Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan, and the natural gas fields of Alberta, provide power for the economical production of many classes of products, the raw material for which is to be found in the vast natural resources of the West.

WESTERN ONTARIO

From the western shores of Lake Superior to the eastern boundary of Manitoba extends a vast stretch of timber land interspersed with numerous lakes and underlying the land areas are deposits of iron, gold, clay, gravel, and sand. The rivers and lakes are popular with the fishermen and big game in the territory attracts many hunters each season. There are water-powers estimated to produce 237,347 H.P., but so far development has taken place only at Current River, Kakabeka Falls and Kenora. The power plant constructed at Cameron Falls, Nipigon River, east of Port Arthur, is now in operation, and additional power is available to the cities at the head of the Lakes. During the season of navigation the cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, with their 37 elevators and a total approximate capacity of 63,460,000 bus., handle the huge grain crop of the West, which, in the shipping season of 1923, saw over 213,856,215 bus. of all grains passing through and representing 1,106 cargoes handled across Lake Superior. These boats bring back coal and general merchandise.

The pulp and paper industry is developed and operating at Port Arthur, Fort William, Dryden and Kenora. Lumbering is carried on now extensively along the route of the Canadian Pacific Railway and there are a number of sawmills in operation.

There is a large and productive agricultural area tributary to the cities of Port Arthur and Fort William aggregating 100,000 acres, suitable for mixed farming, dairying and garden products. Mixed farming areas surround Dryden, Chudraft, Eagle River and other points where a reputation has been established in the production of clover seed.

Kenora and Keewatin are well-known summer resorts and industrial centres, surrounded by land ideal for mixed farming and market gardening. Kenora and Keewatin, as well as Fort William, are large flourishing centres.

MANITOBA

The population, according to Dominion Census of 1921, is 613,008. The Province extends from the International Boundary to the shores of the Hudson's Bay, and has an area of 251,831 square miles. Its principal rivers are the Red, Winnipeg, Assiniboine, Nelson and Churchill. The water-powers of these rivers are extensive, that of the Winnipeg River alone being capable of developing 480,000 H.P., of which about 99,000 H.P. has been developed with a new plant under construction that will ultimately develop an additional 170,000 H.P. The first unit is now in operation.

Among the principal products of the Province are: Wheat, oats, barley, flax, roots, vegetables, livestock, poultry, fruit, dairying, cultivated and domestic grasses, copper, gold, silver and other metals, gypsum, clay, shale, limestone, gravel, sand, fish, timber, pulp wood, etc.

Lakes Winnipeg, Winnipegosis and Manitoba are famous for their whitefish, which is sold throughout the American continent—the gold eye is another fish much in demand.

While the development of the mineral industry is in its infancy, prospects, with the advent of capital, are reasonably good for the development of the copper, silver and gold areas of The Pas country and the Rice Lake district.

Agriculturally Manitoba has been and is a successful producer. Its wheatlands and mixed farming areas have contributed largely to the wealth of the West, and there is yet available good lands, bush and timber areas for settlement.

Forest areas are not yet fully determined in extent, but some 30 sawmills are in operation and there are considerable tracts of timber suitable for pulp and the manufacture of paper.

Whilst there are no operating coal mines in the Province, Dr. D. B. Dowling, of the Geological Survey of Canada, estimates a possible potential tonnage of 160,000,000 of merchantable coal.

An idea of the wealth-producing powers of the Province can be gained by reading the following statistics for the year 1923:

As a manufacturing centre, Manitoba has the advantage of large power possibilities above referred to and the manufacturing census of 1919 shows:

No. of plants	Capital invested	Value of products
1,622	$111,535,665	$153,020,109

The capital of the Province is the City of Winnipeg, while other cities and towns are St. Boniface, Brandon, Portage la Prairie, Dauphin, Selkirk, Souris, Neepawa, Minnedosa and Carman.

Educational facilities of the Province cover all denominations with Public and Private Schools, Colleges, the University of Manitoba, Arts, Science and Medicine—as well as the Agricultural College operated by the Provincial Government.

The Province is well served by railways connecting east, west, north and south to the United States

SASKATCHEWAN

The population, according to Dominion Census of 1921, is 761,390. The Province has an area of 251,700 square miles, and is traversed by the North and South Saskatchewan Rivers, with the Churchill in the north and Qu'Appelle and Souris Rivers in the centre and south. The larger lakes are the Reindeer, Athabasca, Wollaston, Quill and Last Mountain, most of which produce fish on a commercial basis.

Agriculture is the predominating industry, the great plains of the Province being heavy producers of wheat and other grains. There are, in addition, however, other valuable natural resources in the large coal and clay areas of the south and timber of the north. Other areas which so far have received only initial investigation in the northern parts of the Province, promise possibilities of minerals, building stone, clays and fisheries.

The statistics for the year 1923, following, show the variety and value of products:

The 1919 census of manufacture shows:

The coal resources of the Province are estimated by Dr. D. B. Dowling, of the Geological Survey of Canada, as 59,812,000,000 tons of merchantable coal, the grade being of the lignite varieties. The principal mining area is in the Souris field at Bienfait, Estevan, Roche Percee, Pinto, Shand, Taylorton and other points. The output of the 52 mines in operation in 1921 was 336,071 tons, valued at $819,320.

The clay resources are noteworthy and are found in many parts of the Province. There are, however, large areas along the Weyburn-Lethbridge line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, investigation of which appears to justify the attention of capital. The Provincial Government has a Ceramics Branch at which tests can be made.

The sodium sulphate lakes have been subjected to investigation, and the Canadian Pacific Railway is in a position to submit information on this resource as well as the clays to persons desirous of carrying on development.

The Saskatchewan Government has sent parties into the northern parts of the Province to make preliminary examinations of resources. As a result discoveries were made of coal, silica sand, mineralized rock, limestone, clays, paint clays, shales, granite, bog iron, etc., fur-bearing animals, fish, including pike, pickerel, whitefish, perch and trout, moose and small deer. From Prince Albert to The Pas country is densely wooded, but timber is only of medium size, and in the main not of commercial value.

The water-power of the Province is practically undeveloped. The estimated maximum development from the various rivers is put at 1,311,991 H.P. All the power sites would be from Prince Albert north and in The Pas mining areas in districts which are yet sparsely settled, and in a northern country which in many respects is as yet little prospected. Power in the south is entirely steam generated, the nearby coal fields supplying coal at a cheap figure for such purpose.

The forest area by the Forestry Branch of Dept. of Interior actually surveyed shows 19,633 square miles, with 3,350,997 M.B.F. lumber available, with additional wood amounting to 47,366,270 cords. Based on the above results and other examinations the total area is brought up to 27,514 square miles, and with general reports covering other districts, the area of forest lands of commercial possibilities is put at 45,000 sq. miles, which is estimated to yield a total of 121,356,000 cords of spruce, poplar, jackpine, tamarack, birch and balsam.

Educational facilities cover Public, High and Normal Schools, various denominational Colleges, University of Saskatchewan in Arts and Science, Law and Civil Engineering, and College of Agriculture.

Southern and central parts of the Province are well served with railways with connection to the United States.

The capital of the Province is Regina, other cities being Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Swift Current, Weyburn, Prince Albert, Yorkton, while among the principal towns are Indian Head, Qu'Appelle, North and South Battleford, Melville, etc.

ALBERTA

The population, according to Dominion Census of 1921, is 581,995. The Province has an area of 255,285 square miles and is traversed by the North and South Saskatchewan Rivers as well as those of the Peace, Athabasca, Bow and Red Deer. Its principal lakes are Lesser Slave, Athabasca, Lac La Biche and Buffalo.

Very extensive coal fields underlie the Province, which contains more coal than any other Province in Canada, the estimated tonnage of merchantable coal, according to Dr. D. B. Dowling, of the Geological Survey of Canada, being 1,059,927,400,000 tons. Western coal comprise lignite, lignitic or sub-bituminous, low carbon bituminous, bituminous high carbon, bituminous semi-anthracite. The production in 1922 was 5,976,432 tons, valued at approximately $22,208,627. Natural gas is extensively produced in the areas of Medicine Hat, Redcliff, Bow Island, Okotoks, Viking, etc., and is used for light, heat and manufacturing purposes, the total output in 1922 being 6,400,000 M. cubic feet, which had a commercial value of $1,525,000. A considerable amount of exploration work and drilling has been carried on in an effort to define an oil field, and this work is steadily being continued. The oil production in 1922 was 6,058 barrels, valued at $50,631. In the more northern areas in the Athabasca Valley there is an immense area of tar or bituminous sands—the portions of which that are practically workable aggregate many million tons. Much exploitation and experimentation is being carried on for commercial use of these sands with expectation of a successful issue. The clay areas are extensive and many varieties of brick and tile produced. Forest areas are yet subject to survey and contain much poplar and a considerable amount of pulpwood. Fisheries of the Lesser Slave Lake and Lac La Biche and others produce whitefish annually by the million pounds, most of which is shipped to the U.S.A. markets. The water-powers of the Province are only in the initial stage of development, the principal plants being on the Bow River, west of Calgary, from which that city derives its light and power.

Agriculture is carried on both under natural climatic conditions and irrigation, which is meeting with great success in the southern part of the Province. From the outskirts of the City of Calgary in an easterly direction for a distance of some 140 miles, are the important works built by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and embracing a land area of some 3,000,000 acres, while adjacent to the City of Lethbridge another area of some 135,000 acres is served by water. Additional irrigation works are now under construction, while other schemes of a comprehensive nature, embracing the larger part of the south, are due to mature in order that the best use of the waters from this part of the Province may be brought to the aid of the farmer. The resultant crops derived from irrigation are the best proof of its success, both as to increase in quantity and variety of products grown. Mixed farming and grain growing contribute largely to the wealth of the Province, and this can better be realized by the following statistics of production and values in 1923.

The Peace River Country is being opened up, and now that the Canadian Pacific Railway is operating the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, extensive developments are anticipated.

The territory through which the railway line runs is deemed suitable for grain, stock raising and dairy farming. There are large areas of poplar and other timber. It is well served by lakes and rivers, and the fishing industry is of importance. The principal towns are of modern construction with facilities such as are found in older settled districts. Various natural resources are under process of development and some activity is shown in oil drilling.

Leaving Edmonton the line runs north to the town of Smith, on the Athabasca River, thence to Slave Lake, proceeding in a north-westerly direction along the southern shore of the Lesser Slave Lake to McLennan. From this point the line extends north to the town of Peace River. Thence across the River in a north-westerly direction to Berwyn, which is now in operation. Another branch runs from McLennan in a westerly direction to Spirit River, then south to the town of Grande Prairie.

The capital of the Province is Edmonton; other cities and towns being Calgary, Medicine Hat, Redcliffe, Lethbridge, Red Deer, McLeod, Wetaskiwin, Camrose, Bassano, Banff, Peace River, Spirit River and Grande Prairie.

The educational facilities are Public, High and Normal Schools, Colleges, and University of Alberta, carrying Arts, Science, Medicine, Engineering, etc., Agricultural College and Farm Schools.

Railways serve all parts of the Province and connecting with United States.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The population, according to Dominion Census for 1921, is 523,353. The area of the Province is about 355,855 square miles, which is traversed by four principal mountain ranges, Rocky and Selkirks in the east, and Coast and Vancouver in the west. The seaboard line extends for a distance of some 1,000 miles and possesses many fine harbors used in the rapidly developing coastwise and transpacific traffic. The ports of Vancouver and Victoria are the great centres for passenger and freight steamers sailing to all parts of the world.

The produce of British Columbia are minerals, lumber, fisheries, pulp and paper, fruit and vegetables, hops, dairy products, grains, livestock, building materials, etc., the production of 1923 showing the following value:

The mineral wealth greatly exceeds that of any other resource, there being about 250,000 square miles of the country known to be extensively mineralized. No more than 25% of the entire area is really known and not half that portion has been closely examined in detail. The present mineral production includes gold, copper, silver, lead, zinc, etc. Among building materials the fire clays are of importance. The coal resources of the Province are estimated by Dr. D. B. Dowling, of the Geological Survey of Canada, as 73,874,942,000 tons of merchantable coal. The principal developed mining areas are in the Crow's Nest and Princeton districts of the south, and on Vancouver Island, where the coal is of the highest grade available on the Pacific Coast, and is used largely by steamers engaged in ocean traffic. The production in 1922 amounted to 2,511,843 long tons, valued at $12,559,215, as well as 45,835 long tons of coke, valued at $320,845.

The forest wealth of the Province is noteworthy, the standing commercial timber being estimated at 400,000,000,000 feet, the principal species being Douglas fir, cedar, spruce, Sitka spruce, white and yellow pine, pulpwood, etc.

The water-powers are extensive, being capable of producing upwards of 3,000,000 H.P. Within a radius of 100 miles of Vancouver there is available upwards of 750,000 H.P.; there is developed at Bonnington Falls on the Kootenay River, near Nelson, about 30,000 H.P., which supplies the big smelter at Trail, and has power lines extending to Grand Forks and the Okanagan Lake country. The Nelson territory has about 400,000 H.P. capable of development.

Vancouver Island is rich in minerals, timber, fisheries, agricultural products and water-power. Its coal is used by ocean-going and coastwise steamers. It is well served by railways, and there has been a noteworthy increase in development and settlement during the past years. There are many adjacent islands on which various agricultural and other pursuits are carried on.

The capital of the Province is Victoria, and other principal cities are Vancouver, New Westminster, Nelson, Prince Rupert, Nanaimo, Revelstoke, Cranbrook, Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon, etc.

The educational facilities are excellent, consisting of Public, High and Normal Schools, Colleges, University of B.C., Agricultural College, etc.

Railways traverse the more settled portions of the Province, giving adequate service—making connection with U.S.A. lines as well as lake and river steamers.
